2. Citations and explanations (Rule 70.7)

D1 : JP 09-129470 A (1997.05.16)

1. The device in claim 1 relates to a winding coil assembly composed of an outer stator, an inner stator, a magnet linearly and movably arranged between the outer stator and the inner stator, a winding coil mounted on either the outer stator or the inner stator, in which the mentioned coil is integrally molded by molding material.

On the other hand, D1 discloses a coil-making technology that copper wires are sequentially coated with the following three layers: an inner insulating layer of polyester, polyester amide or polyamide; an outer insulating layer of polyamide or polyester; an epoxy layer. And the wires are integrally joined by melting the epoxy layer. But D1 does not describe the rest of the structural features in claim 1 except the winding coil. Thus, the claim 1 of the present invention can be not derived from the prior art above mentioned and has an inventive step.

2. Claims 1-10 of the invention are not indicated in any documents of search reports nor in D1. Therefore, claims 1-10 can not be invented by a person skilled in the art and is considered to have an inventive step.
